EXCLUSIVE: Reporter Makes Daring Trip Into German-Held Italy

Here is one of the notable journalistic "firsts" of the present war. It was obtained at great personal risk by Aldo Forte, British United Press correspondent of British Switzerland, carrying no evidence except an out-of-print Italian newspaper card showing him to have been interned in Germany as a mountaineer climber and spent 13 hours talking with soldiers and civilians. After getting safely back into Switzerland, he established communication with the British Embassy in Bern, Switzerland. From the Stockholm office, the dispatch was sent to this country by way of London.—EDITOR.

CHIASSO, Swiss-Alpine Frontier, via Stockholm, Sept. 15.—Italians in northern Italy have a burning hatred for the Germans who are occupying their soil, and men, women and children in some parts of the area I have just visited are digging trenches and preparing to resist Adolf Hitler's troops.

They are woefully short of weapons, and some men with whom I talked during my 13-hour tour asked why the Allies did not paracheute arms and ammunition to them.

Pouring out questions on how soon the Allies could be expected in northern Italy, the people told me that the whole upper part of the country was willing and eager to fight to the last man against the Nazis; but lacked the arms to do it.

Those descendants of men who fought the Germans down through generations left no doubt of their bitter antipathy for the Nazis. They told tales of German plundering and killing, and of Germans stripping men and women of jewelry and their money in the streets.

Italians Shipped Away in Sealed Cars

German youths in khaki shorts, bare to the waist, were reported patrolling roads radiating from Milan, arming all men between 18 and 30 for concentration at the central Milan station—which was patrolled by tiger tanks—later to be shipped off in sealed box cars to unknown destinations.

Como, the center of the area through which I traveled, was flaming with war spirit. I saw women and children helping their menfolk dig trenches in the various sections of the city itself and especially along the sector facing in the direction of Milan.

The rail station "Norte Milano" was patrolled by Bersaglieri who looked surprisingly gay in their plumed helmets. Carabinieri in swallow-tailed Napoleonic coats marched in the nearby streets. They allowed me to pass undisturbed—even saluted occasionally.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY, Aug. 26.—Delayed—Top Canadian officers, Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar and Lt. Gen. J. V. Charkiewicz, are recipients of the Distinguished Service Order by command of King George VI for their gallantry in the operations of the 1st Canadian Division in Sicily.

Brig. Graham led his Ontario Infantry brigade with great verve during the operations. Many times about first fire in, he was always spending about five minutes in the bushes keeping close control of the battle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—

Lt.-Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, told reporters that an army of 7,700,000 by the end of this year "is the minimum force required."

He added that any further task would necessitate a change in the strategic and operational

Savings Stamps Daily Average More Than $123

War Savings Stamps, at Edmonton's Stamp Bar are being made this month at an average of $123 a day, officials announced Wednesday. During the 11 days of the month, the total value of sales totaled $1,265, with the Ladies Auxiliary of the 4th Reserve Division, the Divisional Co., R.C.A.S.C. leading the way with sales totaling $276.50. The Women's Canadian Club follows closely with $262.75 and the Women's Auxiliary to The Royal Edmontons are third with $190, highest with sales totaling $242.50. Returns from the stamp booth in the stamp room of the office indicate that this outlet is continuing to produce fine results, with $100 worth of sales made each day since this booth has been in operation so far this month. Both the post office boxes and the stamp bar are operated by women's organizations, working under the sponsorship of Mrs. J. V. Adair. Following are the names of the women's groups which have participated in this month and the results they obtained:

Post Office Boxes—Royal Canadian Women's H.R.H. Royal Society of St. George $12; Canadian Daughters of St. George $10; Royal Standard Orange Lodge $8.50; Royal Lions; Women $30; Royal Society of St. George $20; Canadian Daughters of St. George $10; Standard Orange Lodge $15.

Lieut. Rex Carey, professional middleweight boxer, won the Military Cross for leadership of his platoon in the hills near Leonforte, Sicily, where he held off German positions like a prairie cattle.

The German cross, however, was not given to Carey because he had been decorated for gallantry in the same battle.

The German command noted that the Allies had made a new and strong stand on the hills and that it was not surprising if commandos also went on Crete.

The Allies' aerial superiority was demonstrated by the fact that none of the 1,000 sorties made in the first record day of operations, and that six enemy planes were shot down. It was also because of the comparatively small number put up on Crete.

OCCUPIED CAPIRI

The communiqué, which also announced that the British had captured all of Capri, northwest of Naples, said:

"British fighting continue to be determined counter-attacks have been carried out by both sides. In some places our troops have been forced to withdraw but, despite heavy losses, are being consolidated and reinforcements continue to arrive rapidly."

In southern Italy — where the Eighth Army was — there was northward to aid the Salerno battle — progress was made and that Salerno had been occupied on the western coast road. This represented an advance of some 10 miles from Cosenza and put the troops of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th Army at the head of the Salerno bridgehead.

On the east coast the British and American forces had been held in the Corigliano and Battipaglia areas.

The Germans, apparently still were making their all out effort to hold the British Eighth Army coming up from the south.

NAZIS MOVE FOR SALERNO

This was indicated by disclosures that the German 29th Motorized Division, which had been in the south, now is in action on the Salerno front with the 10th and 102nd Parachute Divisions, and the German Guards Division.

In stating that the Allied position was slightly improved as compared to yesterday, it was pointed out that the main important development was the failure of the enemy's desperate efforts to break through to the south.

Although Allied troops had frequent counter-attacks, it was not indicated that any new ground was gained as these attacks normally could not gain much ground.

Despite heavy losses, the Ger-man's strength was at least equal to the Allied invasion force on the ground and his position was

There is no official answer yet but there may be soon, and it is expected to be "no."

TOTALLY CARRY ON

The order for the reserve will be "carry on" on the country needs

so far as possible, equal to that

Speaking at Shillong, Major Sam, chief of the general staff, said: "It was the existence of the reserve army that enabled Canada to carry on in the war." The reserve army's active duty during the war. I lost the reserve army being used as part of Canada's military system, and I think it will remain so."

LET-DOWN IN ACTIVITY

It is recalled that after the First World War, the Canadian skinning organization of the non-permanent active militia — as the reserve was then known — was not a let-down in military activity.

This was considered unfortunate and the government decided to split the Americans and British. How close to the coast their drive carried them was

The Nazi supply was throwing a non-stop barrage of armor-piercing shells and high explosives at British ships off shore.

The Germans, however, were apparently trying to thwart down their own supply lines by sending ships to the coast to capture and tank columns with their big guns.

The Nazi supply was throwing a non-stop barrage of armor-piercing shells and high explosives at British ships off shore.

The aerial offensive, which was the most effective ever, was supported by an Allied armada which moved in close to the coast and sank many ships and tank columns with their big guns.

American cruisers joined in the hunt for the Nazis.

There was no question that the high command had put aside any thoughts of evacuating the Salerno area, and the British were fighting with every plane, ship and man it could throw into the battle.

King Michael and his mother were reported ready to flee to the Balkans.

COMMANDOS ACTIVE

Other sources disclosed that certain British troops were spreading jitters among the Balkans with commando raids and ambushes on Axis concentrations and tank columns with their big guns.

Dispatches said the Allied troops were battling magnificently and were determined to get things done in up to five divisions — had failed in their struggle, despite their superior numbers.

Church Group Studies Social Service Work

By H. H. GORDON
TORONTO, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Various church bodies in the service work of the church were debated at length yesterday by the general synod of the Church of England, which is meeting in Trinity College.

Introduction of a section of the report of Rev. Canon W. M. Judd, general secretary of the social service work of the church, was followed by considerable discussion on a resolution introduced by the chairman of a "Favorable public opinion toward the instituting of pre-marital examinations."

A series of resolutions declared that there were many other elements in the spiritual attitude towards marriage besides health and the resolution was ordered re-drafted.

MOTION PASSED

Later in the session the motion was passed in the voting medium: "That this general synod, holding that marriage is essentially a spiritual relationship, requires health of body and mind for its expression, emphasizes the importance of inculcating the principles of self-knowledge, self-control, and self-control and also recommends the support of appropriate measures to insure that the parties that the parties to marriage are of sound health mentally and physically."

Opening the debate on the motion, Dr. Judd said: "The main problem facing the problem of social disease is the people of Canada were not at all laying down their responsibilities." He said Canada's contribution was needed and the clergy should be able to make a real contribution to the cause.

Very Rev. C. E. Riley, Toronto, wanted it to be clearly understood that the absence of a clean bill of health did not mean an absolute obstacle to marriage.

I fear that we are tending to drift into a question of fundamental morality and sin too much on the basis of health," he said. Dr. Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, "There is nothing good to the basis of marriage."

FAVOR TEMPERANCE

Another resolution adopted expressed the opinion that the federal government should be asked to ready to "accept the present standing offer of the British government to assist in the payment of the cost of selection, transportation and settlement of their emigrating Canadian citizens and the government assume 25 per cent."

The resolution on immigration also declared that the Canadian government should be asked to "readily continue the modest restitutive measures regarding the sale of alcohol to the Canadian market."

The church was urged to forward the case to the prime minister for the better protection of the youth and the manhood of the country and for the better prosecution of the war.

SANCTUARY ASKED

In another motion the general synod urged the government to offer sanctuary to European refugees and to assist in their political persecution in Europe.

Those appointed to the executive committee of the council of service included the bishops of Saskatoon, Ontario, Ottawa, and Montreal together with Rev. G. R. Collier, Rev. W. A. Weyburn, Sask., Rev. W. Cooper, Vancouver.

"Under the plan of reorganization all men medically fit for combat will be retained in the army. Men in medical categories below those acceptable for combat will be assigned to less active duties to the extent they are required."

"Other men in these lower categories will not be retained but will be discharged from the army and made available for essential civilian service." Every man in the medical categories below those acceptable for combat will be assigned to less active duties to the extent they are required."

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

The map above shows area where Allies made important landings and advanced in Italy. The British and American forces still in Italy are continuing their advance along the coast of the Italian boot to toe, across the Apennines to the south, and up the Alpine mountain range. The Germans are still in control of Sicily and the Ionian Sea.

The BBC broadcast last night reported that Canadians with tanks and motorized infantry are engaged in the bloody fighting on the Salerno bridgehead.

The broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency said the Canadians were fighting on the northern flank of the Allied bridgehead, and asserted that they had been encircled by German troops and "now are exposed to heavy artillery fire on both flanks."

The German report said the Canadians had pushed west after long and difficult fighting, and had deployed greater tank forces and whence they might have been repelled.

It was reported the Germans counter-threw the Canadians back to Vietri, which is on the coast of the Gulf of Salerno about five miles southwest of the City of Salerno.

There has been no official report that Canadians are fighting on the southern flank of the bridgehead, but a day ago it was believed units of the Canadian 1st Tank Brigade, which fought in Sicily, might be with Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark's Allied 5th Army at Salerno.

Legislation on Bargaining Is Asked by Labor

By MYER NEGRU

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Relatives of dealers, dentists, pharmacists, bakers, hoteliers, with Day government operation of the coal industry, housing, Quebec provincial water power and telephone were adopted here yesterday by the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The Congress approved, and sent to the resolutions committee for inclusion of an amendment, a motion urging the Dominion government to enact "without delay" a national bargaining legislation "that will guarantee to all workers the right to negotiate collectively with their employers, through legitimate unions of their choice."

The amendment to be added asked that the government declare illegal "all company-sponsored unions organized to represent workers through their employers."

ALLIES RESOLUTION

A. Miller, president of the Canadian Council of Unions, urged that collective bargaining rights be granted employees of government agencies such as the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Harbors Board, navy docks, the Congress of Transport and Dominion Steel.

The Congress demanded that the Dominion government pass mandatory legislation granting workers of Canada the right to bargain day with year each.

In the second day of its fourth annual convention here, the Congress went on record as supporting the Federal government to "immediately set up the necessary machinery to implement the principles of control and place under government direction and operation the entire coal mining industry of Canada."

On the subject of housing, the congress urged the federal government to work with provincial governments or local authorities and exclusive of private enterprise, to set up the necessary machinery to implement a comprehensive housing scheme whereby good houses will be built for use and not for profit, and so constructed as to reach every working class family in the country."

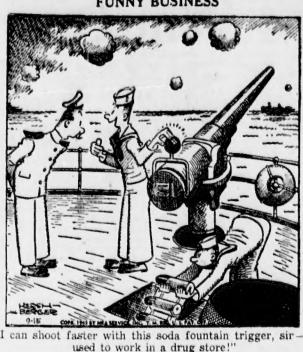

OTHER RESOLUTIONS

Other resolutions urged that:

1. The incoming executive committee continue their campaign for the widespread establishment of labour-management committees.

2. The national war labor boards direct the regional war labor boards to grant equal pay for equal comparable work performed by either sex.

3. On the federal and provincial governments "sets aside" a portion of their budget for doing their part on behalf of national unity by adopting policies and legislative measures which shall guarantee to Quebec

Mussolini Tired, Beaten, Rather Comical Figure As Career Came to End

The following brief account of Mussolini's downfall was written three days before the Nazis announced they had freed him from an unnamed prison.—EDITOR.

By DON WHITEHEAD

SALERNO, Italy, Sept. 9.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Benito Mussolini ended his spectacular career as Italy's "Il Duce," a tired, beaten, rather comical figure riding to prison in the back seat of an ambulance.

His son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, former foreign minister, was made a virtual prisoner when he presented his pre-Nazi daughter, Edda, with the King.

Medical Problems In Army Studied

CAGLIARI, Sept. 16.—(CP)—As doctors learn more about low backaches, cases of psychosomatics and "skimshanking" in the army will decrease, Maj. J. A. L. Walker, R.M.C., yesterday told the Alberta division of the Canadian Legion association in convention here.

Another field for exploration related to apprenticeship for re-employment is in trades where such are necessary to attain full journeymen standing and union membership as such. While some difficult problems remain, the association regarding apprenticeships which have to be changed will be solved by the time the consent and support of unions will be necessary to any practical plan that can be worked out for re-employment of discharged personnel in any trade through apprenticeship training.

The latter said that there is a general desire to have such apprentices and others of a like nature, stay before demobilization on a large scale. The Canadian Legion's co-operation of this can be done with all concerned.

Saves Hosptiy But Calls Fire Wagons

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Angelina Gibaldi, Brooklyn, saved her precious nylon hose by thereby cutting them off with a pair of shears. The girl explained in court she had stooped over to a shoe lace, lost her balance and, to have support, grabbed the handle of a fire alarm box. She pleaded guilty to tampering with a fire alarm and was given suspended sentence.

Disease Control in the Canadian Army Overseas

For the past two years, Dr. Harold Orr, professor of dermatology at the University of Alberta, has been consulting medical officer in the Canadian and of any other agreed-on labor body.

Mr. Orr has said that, for example, he believed that it would be extremely difficult for discharged men, who were not employed by the railway service, to return to the railway service.

Decline Reported In Social Disease

CALGARY, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Despite war conditions, social disease is definitely on the wane... the rate in Alberta is now lower than it was at the beginning of the war.

That was the opinion known in an interview yesterday by Dr. Harold Orr, professor of dermatology at the University of Alberta.

Dr. Orr, who is attending the medical convention here, is in charge of social disease control in this province.

A lieutenant-colonel in the R.C.A.M.C. during the First Great War he was in charge of social work for the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Mr. Orr has said that, for example, he believed that it would be extremely difficult for discharged men, who were not employed by the railway service, to return to the railway service.

Men taken on during the war apparently are not regarded as socially fit for discharge.

Mr. Orr has said that, for example, he believed that it would be extremely difficult for discharged men, who were not employed by the railway service, to return to the railway service.

The reason, he said, is that the men due to a large extent start

and more efficient means of finding sources of infection.

PROPOSAL REFUSED

To Grandi's proposal, Mussolini said no. Five senators and no members of the Senate and Coast Guardsman, president of the Senate, voted neither no nor yes.

The same day, Sunday, Mussolini received a telegram from the King wishing to see him.

Meantime, after the decisive defeat in the Senate, Grandi went to the Quirinal Palace, where he had left his automobile and a special guard. But his car was not there. He was told to go to another place with a Carabinieri captain beside him.

Grandi, my informant said, appeared startled. The Carabinieri captain stepped forward and said,

"MORE SUITABLE!"

"I think your excellency," he said, "the automobile is more suitable for your safety than the other one" "Unsuited," Il Duce snapped. He looked around, then turned to the police. "What is the meaning of this?"

"Well, sir," said the young captain, "I must tell you this car is much better than the other."

Mussolini looked into the eyes of the young captain, then to the captain and when he saw there made him give a shrug of responsibility.

Mussolini stepped to the door of the ambulance, "the officer concluded," and the captain opened it. Inside were four big, handsome Carabinieri, all in uniform. The door was shut. The ambulance drove off the grounds—through the rear gate—to prison.

Urge Adjustment Of Hog Prices

OTTAWA, Sept. 15.—(CP)—Necessity of an upward adjustment of hog prices if the volume of production is to be maintained was stressed yesterday at a one-day national conference of hog producers in the auspices of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Representatives from all nine provinces attended the meeting which had Fred Downing of Winnipeg as its chairman.

A number of speakers emphasized the necessity of an upward adjustment of prices to keep production at its present high level and to combat the early completion of negotiations between the federal government and the British food ministry concerning the bacon contract so farmers may know their position.

It was unanimously agreed that there was need for a national live stock organization within the framework of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and a committee to study the question.

The Dominion was established to start working toward such an organization.

Three of a kind!

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE? It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your station will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march.

CANADIANS ARE ALL ALIKE IN ONE IMPORTANT RESPECT. They do their own thinking and get there under their own power. It's a national characteristic.

No pampered or servile people could have built this nation. It took men of courage and moral fibre to clear the forests, dig the mines—to build our farms and factories, our cities and our towns—to give us a standard of living that is the envy of the world. Canada's greatness stems directly from the self-reliance and initiative of individual citizens. These qualities provide a sure foundation on which to build for tomorrow.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK. Sept. 15.—Here's our 1943 major league all-star team: Arky Vaughan, Dodgers, 3B; Stan Musial, Cardinals, c; Rudy York, Tigers, 1B; Dick Wakefield, Detroit, lf; Luke Appling, White Sox, ss; Walker Cooper, Cardinals, c; Billy Herman, Dodgers, 2B; Bill Nicholson, Cubs, r; Spurgeon Chandler, Yanks, p; and Moret Cooper, Cardinals, p.

It seems a simple statement of fact, but it is true that no one in the United States will agree with us on all of our choices except the two plain glowers at the bottom of the list.

One of our toughest jobs was to decide upon the all-star for third base, as we believed that by now Major League fans had to center field by putting Bill Nicholson, of the Cubs, at his usual right field position, and Dick Wakefield of the Tigers in left.

We had to make this arrangement of the outfield, or skip one of the players, because of the season—any one of the three mentioned above.

Walker Cooper of the Cardinals got the nod for the catching assignment after we recalled that Bill Dickey of the Yanks had been inducted into the Hall of Fame.

It is pretty good when you consider there are only 75 Canadians in this camp that now.

Empire games: Ralph (Hank) Henderson, former Vancouver all-round athlete, wrote home from his camp in Germany. On July 24 he had a track and field meet which was conducted just like the Empire Games. Canada's record is 100 m. t. "I hope," he writes, "to earn some credit with such enthusiasm."

Toronto Sept. 15.—(CP)—No news yet from the Canadian football in the fifth year of war. Canada's soundings will see to it that the Dominion's national game survives. There will be plenty of hockey players as long as there are boys like the Fort William lads who have been training in the corners of Vickers and Minden streets in anticipation of the rink they'll have there next winter. The boys have been camped around in search of materials and built every bit of the shack themselves. They may not have had a place to don their skates. Fred Edwards of the Fort William mines—Journal—comes in to rest secure with such enthusiasm."

PITCHERS EASY TO NAME: Three pitchers were easily picked: Spurgeon Chandler of the Yankees with 19 wins and three defeats; Leo Savel of the Red Sox with 20 wins and 12 losses; and Moret Cooper of the Cardinals with 19 wins.

In making these selections for our all-star team we used every available figure, based on our own impressions of their performance and a checkup with other observers of the major leagues. We believe that eastern boys will help to keep the western game going this year. Imagine the fun Grand Falls had with a team collected from all points east."

Round and about: Granting that Halifax has many teams in the city, the greatest name in Canadian football on call, Bill Hutchison of the Moncton Transcript discounts the possibility of a Canadian football challenge for the Grey Cup because of lack of competition in the marquee. He is right. The Timmins Press is reporting Happy Day's negotiations to bring Toronto Maple Leafs in for a home road team. The Leaf coach concedes Leafs may not operate this season because of the manpower shortage. It is a fact that eastern boys will help to keep the western game going this year. Imagine the fun Grand Falls had with a team collected from all points east."

CHICAGO Sept. 15.—(AP)—Luke Appling of Chicago White Sox may be trying so hard to win American League batting championship that he has lost sight of the fact he needs a few base hits regularly to do it. He made just two safeties in 22 times at bat in the last seven days.

Appling found his season's average slumping only 11 points to .320 up to today's games, and the White Sox shortstop is six points behind Detroit, who is hitting .314.

Guy Cartwright of the White Sox and Roger Crager of Detroit Tigers are the only two players in the other American Leagues over the 300 mark, and they barely in with .314.

The others of the top 10 are Bill Johnson of New York and Pete Fox of Boston, both .313; Jimmie Foxx of Cleveland at .310; Roy Colvin of Cleveland at .307; George Case of Washington at .303; and Ontario Steppen of St. Louis at .284.

Wakefield led in total runs with 100, while Appling and St. Louis and Rudy York showed the way in home runs with 31, runs batted in with 100, and tied with Johnny Lindell of New York. Case has triples, east having 10. Case was the stolen base leader with 47.

Spud Chubb of the New York skill had the best pitching record with 19 victories and three defeats, with H.H. Newhouse of Detroit the strikeout King with 37.

Completion Coal Branch Highway May Be Delayed

Lack of Machines, Labor, Might Cause Retardation: Minister Will Press Efforts

Completion of the Coal Branch road may be prevented this year because of lack of labor and machinery, Hon. W. A. Fullister, minister of public works and acting premier, stated Wednesday. He said that every effort is being made to build the 30-mile link with the Jasper Highway, and departmental executives were exploring ways and means to insure its completion.

"I have not lost hope, and intend to do everything possible to complete the road this year," the minister said.

It was extremely difficult to obtain truckers for the work, and on Tuesday an offer of $3 an hour had been turned down by 15 drivers.

A section of the road requires corduroy material, and it is necessary to haul clay by truck to construct the road base, Mr. Fullister stated.

COMPLETE CLEARING

Clearing has been completed along the entire route of the highway, and the roadbed is now constructed for the MacLeod trail, where a highway bridge has been built. Culverts also have been installed at muskeg points along the highway.

Commenting on the general road situation in the north, Mr. Fullister said rainy weather had delayed the season's work. Full advantage was being taken of favorable weather conditions, and the graveling work was being extended.

He said that the work would be carried on as far as feasible, and even later as there was considerable gravel to be moved.

Alteration in Academic Year "House" Matter

Changes in the Wartime Education Act, under which the school holiday period was to be extended to Oct. 10, cannot be made before the next session of the legislature, Hon. Solon Low, minister of education, stated Wednesday.

Mr. Low said that Alberta education officials had received a telegram from Hon. Mitchell, Dominion minister of labor, requesting that the extension be postponed until the month of September. This request was made with a view to help bring provided in meeting the shortage of labor.

Whether or not legislation would be introduced in the next session of the legislature to determine the "long holiday" Mr. Low declined to state. He said that the question would be discussed during the session.

Future policy concerning the "long holiday" will be determined in the fall, he said, through this year's examination. These might be so satisfactory that it would be desired to continue the plan it was started.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—Baby May Easily Part Wife and Husband

Mother Devotes All Her Time to Child Without Thought of Husband, and Consequently Mate Stays Away From Home

"Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have always been very much in love, very devoted to each other, but now our happy marriage is threatened by the fact that my husband wants children. My husband did not, and he was put up by the ad-vice of his mother."

Now the baby is several months old and my husband does not care about it. Then he didn't think his wife could be a good mother. You come first with him, and he wants you to be the same tender, affectionate, loving companion you were before you became a mother. He gave me as much attention as you do the youngster.

You know, I can't do this; that baby takes all of your time. That is because you don't have time for anything else. You have to sit up and watch it breathe all the time, spend hours getting it to sleep, and have a fit every night. My husband has not even tried to get a training baby specialist to spend a week with you. She will tell you how to care for the baby, cure your husband's jealousy, and let you resume being a wife once again. I am afraid that if I do, he will be lot cheaper than getting a divorce."

STILL TOO YOUNG

"DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married almost three years. It is 22 and I am 20. We were very young before we became parents. What can I do to keep my husband and baby and still be happy? I am afraid that if I stay with him, I am going to be a pretty sure to lose my husband."

A TROUBLED MOTHER. Answer: You are right to be perturbed as the two of them are a husband and wife closer together. Sometimes they do just as often as we do. There are many cases apart, and in many and many a divorce case, if the true correspondents are to be believed, the husband instead of the "other woman." When this happens it is generally the wife's fault, because so many husbands are too fond of their wives to take parenthood in their stride, as their husbands do. They become jealous of their wives, and all their time, thoughts, and energies to their children, and causes all the trouble. And the husbands expect their wives to take care of their broods. And not many men enjoy having their noses put out of joint.

Surely you must have noticed how many married men take to wearing their wives' clothes. This is born, to that time the husband had been devoting himself to his wife and people wonder why he is so fond of her. And the husband for him for timing of the pretty young creature so soon. But the fault isn't his. He is probably too far out of his house, out of his life because he doesn't have any time to give him, or to dress up and look nice. Even the babies.

This is just as stupid and unless you meet it with more intelligence than you are doing are you going to lose a perfectly good husband. You are right to be worried, but picture that your husband is jealous of the baby. Foolish, of course, but surely you must have noticed how many married men take to wearing their wives' clothes. This is born, to that time the husband had been devoting himself to his wife and people wonder why he is so fond of her. And the husband for him for timing of the pretty young creature so soon. But the fault isn't his. He is probably too far out of his house, out of his life because he doesn't have any time to give him, or to dress up and look nice. Even the babies.

And for your wives try to restrain them; and make them for their age and act like sensible women. And the husbands should give up domestic tyrannies and come away from being napped. So I fear there is no way you can keep your husband from being a tyrant without your wives' help. And the husband for him for timing of the pretty young creature so soon. But the fault isn't his. He is probably too far out of his house, out of his life because he doesn't have any time to give him, or to dress up and look nice. Even the babies.

WANTS CHILD

"DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married to an army officer for two and a half years. He is 30 and I am 25. We have been very happy, but we don't, and we quarrel bitterly over this. What should I do?"

LONELY WIFE

Answer: Give your husband a chance. Wait three or four years, anyway, before you abandon the idea of having children of your own. But if you are both really too old, you need not be afraid you won't love each other. Most people seem more foolish about adoption than about having real parents are over their own youngsters.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE NEVER ELORED

The history of countless children whose parents try to make them conform to toilet habits considered desirable and grown-up, is so little known that it may be of interest to print it. It is a history of failure, not success.

It is a U. S. story. When my little boy was 9 months old I started to try to break him of wetting and soiling his pants. I would catch him, I would scold him, I would catch him. This continued for a year or so and I praised him for using the toilet. I did not scold him, but I did not reward him either. He would never make any effort to show me his readiness for attending school.

When he got to 2 years old he could talk a lot but would never tell me. I asked him if he had to go to the toilet and he said "no". I thought he was being obstinate, but he was not. He was telling me that he had to go to the toilet.

He was getting so exasperated that I laid aside all book advice and started using anything I could think of to break him. I would think of him. I would reward him. I would scold him. I would punish him. And I did. As might be expected, we were both miserable and I quit that method in a hurry.

"Over and over I said, 'When you have to go, go.' And the boy did not do it. One day I told him he could go all day without changing his pants and he didn't believe me.

"There wasn't any method I did not try and now I am sorry I made him feel bad. In the couple of months I have gone back to the old method and for the last couple of days he has been wetting his pants again. He is so accustomed to going to the toilet that he goes good little boy but I am disheartened."

I started to train too early. Your success was due to your efforts not the boy's. But had you continued he would have grown up to be a good citizen. And the boy would have submitted to them when he was old enough to understand. I am not suggesting that "being told" instead of being satisfied to keep him dry and clean is better. Under certain circumstances it is.

Likewise, the Spaniards did not value it. In South Africa there are three diamonds at the bottom and three diamonds at the top before the white man came and created a foreign demand for them.

Foreign demand for them depends on how many people want it.

Some remarkable records were established at the summer session of the National Bridge Institute. Perhaps the most remarkable of all the events was set by Charles H. Gores of Philadelphia when he finished the winning team in the men's event and third in the other. He was on the winning national mixed team-four, he won the men's team title and the women's team title, and while defending the world championship Masters pair title and finished third, and the championship Masters team-four.

The hand shown today occurred in the Masters pair event. The six had the double. In view of the double, he played

Unlocking Adventure

By CHARLES COURTNEY

CHAPTER XV

RETURNING to New York eager to get home and pleased with the new locks that had brought him the job, Eddie, a 16-year-old son, Eddie, was very ill. An attack of scarlet fever had left him with a weak heart. For the past two years Eddie had voted every thought and all our resources to keeping him well, but even though he was strong he would never be well. From day to day we tried to hope, but my fingers were sensitive that could tell the pulse. There was no doctor, perhaps a pickpocket, a dapper suit, and a girl who looked as if she might have been gathered up in a night-club raid. The front door opened into the courtroom and this door was stuck.

At the door stood the lock giant at the prisoners: a huge Negro, a slatternly blond woman,

"Take your time, because you know what I'm in for, if you let that lock stay right where it is!"
